Best Practices in Web Design for kids

This article covers Best Practices in Web Design for Kids:
http://www.smashingmagazine.com/2011/07/06/best-practices-for-web-design-for-kids/.
The article covers Interface Design and Interactivity.

It's also worth mentioning that there are also privacy and legal concerns to keep in mind.
You took some pictures of the Little League baseball team practicing. You want to use them on your website about the team. Can you? Do you need parental permission? Here's some useful advice:
http://www.aifs.gov.au/nch/pubs/sheets/rs18/rs18.html

How about adults? When do you need the subject of a photograph to sign a model release?
This article may help: http://www.danheller.com/model-release-primer
Model Release Templates: http://asmp.org/tutorials/forms.html